Family-owned Cayce Mill Supply Co. is celebrating 100 years of business.

Cayce Mill Supply Co., a family-owned distributor of plumbing, electrical, HVAC and industrial products is celebrating its 100th anniversary in 2019.

Headquartered in a 180,000-square foot facility on U.S. 41 in Hopkinsville, Cayce Mill serves customers locally and across the country. Employing over 90 people, the company has locations in Hopkinsville, Russellville, Owensboro and Mayfield.

Fifth-generation owners B.J. Cayce, the CEO, and Bart Cayce, the company president, oversee the business with guidance from their father, Breck Cayce.

“Seeing the business thrive through five generations and over 100 years is a dream come true for the Cayce family,” the elder Cayce says of his sons leading the business into its centennial celebration. Breck credits the Cayce Mill family of employees as well as the company’s loyal customer base with the achievement of such a milestone.

Breck Cayce’s great-grandfather, Clinton Cayce, established the company in Hopkinsville in December 1919 and initially sold supplies to grain mills, saw mills and farmers. Next in the family line of owners was Granville Cayce Sr., and then his son, Granville Jr., who was Breck’s father.

Cayce Mill’s longevity is rare. It is estimated that less than 3 percent of family-owned American businesses remain in the same family into the fourth generation and beyond.
